Title: A note from Ricardo

To The Gracious Citizens of Britannia,

I must sincerely apologize for the brutish reaction of the Ophidians to my relieving them of an item so small it hardly bears mentioning. Who knew how sensitive those silly snakes were?

I can't promise to bring back the item, as, well, it doesn't much exist anymore. However, my conscious, which rarely reminds me of its existence, tells me I should perform some small favor for you. I believe there is a door in some dank dungeon that some citizens requested be opened. I might just do that. Of course, if I do open that door, I lay claim to whatever trinkets might be inside, as a small payment for my services.

Yours Truly,

Ricardo
